How the heck am I supposed to set up a dedicated server without the dedicated server serial number? I never recieved the e-mail containing it and I already e-mailed EA about it and all they give me is where to obtain one at, where to get the FDS at and some shit about Renegade being an un supported product. What if someone were to give me a dedicated server serial number? Would that serial number only work with the name it was registered with or not?

The EA FDS email system is not working, and no one knows when/if it will again!

Yeah - if anyone has a serial they want to donate to someone, I'm open!   <--- if you're leaving renegade, do this as now no one can get them!!

Hmm. . . guess I need a connection better than DSL to host a bigger game . . . Ohh well I was hoping to be able to set up an 8 player server at least. Agh I'm having problems with BR.net anyways so I guess I won't be setting up a server.

Usually cable is better for hosting, but my adsl is 1mbps upload which is good.

How did you get the serial?
I requested one a few months ago and it still hasn't come.

Spreegem: i have a 4v4 inf only server @ 512k/256k and that runs fine with hardly much lag - i'm testing it on 5v5 at the mo and it's looking good. As for aow...that lags a lot because of the vehicles etc. Try out hosting different player numbers - look in the FDS screen at the total number of k used when you type player_info - this mustn't go above 133 for you.
