Way over the top with the scripted sequences, at some times it feels more like playing a part in a war movie than being in a war. Maybe thats what they were aiming for, but I prefer my fps a bit less linear.

Ya...linear FPSs turn into

Get-From-Point-A-To-Point-B-All-The-While-Killing-Moving-Enemy-Like-Things-And-Sometimes-P rotecting-A-Tank/Soldier-With-Crappy-A/I. I refer to these games as how is the AI so good? I mean it's not bad like fire warrior bad or anything, but it's not all that smart either, it shoots at you, runs away from grenades and, well thats about it, I mean it's not like it uses any kind of adaptive tactics or anything. Tho probably this is more to do with the game being so solidly linear that it has little need to adapt.

COD is a good game. Multiplayer is really good when ur playin wit a bunch of friends but when your playin alone its like Halo and gets boring after a while. And the single player aint that bad also.
