I play C&C gold all of the time. I used to play it on WOL, but the only computer in the house that had Windows 98 won't connect to the internet. So, now I'm stuck playing single player on this computer with Windows XP.

Theres an XP fix for RA and C&C Gold.

I have 2 copies of it with covert operations. I play it from time to time, but not regularly.

Last time I played TD online was about.....sometime in 1999. I had a 94mhz computer and some guy kept telling me to upgrade and he scared me off. Untill RA2 came out I did not dare to get online again.

bigejoe14I thought you couldn't play C&C online anymore.

You can. You just need to download the latest version of WW chat. It still works.

Well, to play on XP you have to have the XP Fix, but that disables LAN, and Internet play.

Before you can play online, you have to register but because the internet registration server is down (forever?), it's not possible.

From what I believe, the mini RA file takes care of any XP issues.

over Mplayer, it kind of killed the RA1 as I knew it. The combo of GSA & RA1 has issues with routers and they never got it pinpointed for me. I know of a handful of regulars that play on Kali, us gather once in a while for the fun of it.

Just use your Renegade nick. It should work.
