Well see, your plan is dandy and all, but I think you really want to say "fuck you" to the executives of EA. You know, the people that make all the decisions, not the people in India answering questions or the answering machines in a warehouse.

You'll never get to talk to those high end executives. Nope, it will never happen.

The only possible way you can actually meet and talk to the EA CEOs is by barging in Havoc style, as shown in that clip.

SeaManPetition, perhaps?
There has been like a million of those started by every 11 year old in the community.

EA are much better off to ignore any possible petition. The size of this community isn't anything
EA are gonna shit their pants over.

Well, not so shit. Of course, I agree with you that EA has completely transformed C&C, and took it out of the real C&C storyline, but the new "thing" that is out now, isn't so bad. It's good about graphics etc. We all should see that and say: "Uhm, EA completely sucks, but that game is good". It's the company, the franchise what sucks.

I meant that when WW made C&C, support was good, WOL didn't go down much, ladder was fine, serials were given out, etc. But EA has done very little of this, have you noticed that the Generals site is really the only one updated? If you go to the Red Alert page, and click on updates, it will send you to the official C&C site, where you find almost NO information on how to make Red Alert work or whatever. The Renegade site is a P.O.S. and has been down for what, 9 months maybe? EA has just dropped the ball on this. I doubt that WW was considering making Generals, and have you seen the C&C attack chopper on pogo.com? That is NOTHING like the normal C&C. Conclusion: EA only cares about Generals, and rarely fixes things.

Have you been reading the posts above? It's unsupported, EA don't want to waste time on something there gonna get nothing out of. Generals has only recently been released, and therefore still supported.

However it is going to unsupported status in a half year or so. Unless if they release something like "First Hour expansion pack"... followed by Second Hour, Third Hour etc. The game can get total of 24 expansion packs. Later expansion pack compilations can be released, like Zero Day and Zero Month.

Quote:Although online petitions seem to make sense sometimes, they never do any good to submit them. EA already has plans for 3 years ahead of time, so trying to get them to change that is like changing water to wine...

Millions I doubt that.

With that said.

If you guys really want Renegade 2

Make the damn thing already.

There are enough engines out there that are easily modable with a little effort.

'Nuff said.

UT2K4.

I hear ya!

OT: Onslaught mode is really like a mix of Tribes and Renegade. Just comes to show that somebody at Epic Games saw a potential with the Renegade concept, no?
