I posted this on n00bstories but it was deleted. Not a big deal, it had nothing to do with Renegade.

This happened a few years ago. I was in class in high school, in 9th grade I think. We had just gotten our tests back, so of course we were all checking out each others' scores and finding out the correct answers. One of my answers was marked through, and the word "omit" was written next to it. One guy looked at his paper and confidently said, "Yeah, I knew it was that word, om...om, omit."

:rolleyes: :rolleyes: :rolleyes:

Post your real-life n00b encounters.

There are no such things as real life n00bs.

If you think that the gaming/internet term "n00b" applies in life, you're just a...Oh well, figure it out yourself.

In real life they're called morons, dipshits, dumbass's, retards, fags, fuckface, etc. Hell, that's what I call stupid people on the internet too, saying "n00b" is really dumb.

Theres this guy at my school who wrote something like...
"LOL OMG J00 GOT OWND"
on his backpack and walks around with it everywhere.

Or another guy who desperately wants to be Neo from the Matrix, but looks like a complete dork and needs a life lol.

Not necessarily n00bish, but it is pretty sad.

I was in the commons yesterday for study hall and before the period was about over these two kids with a roll around black board walk by with "Mr. Garrison is t3h suxs". I dunno, I just found it funny that they would do that right in front of Mr. Garrison. Apparently they walked around the whole school and didn't know that Mr. Garrison was in that room
