Wow reading that whole thread is pretty amusing. People actually demanding to cheat. Sounds a lot like the old GX crowd.

Games like UT2004 shouldn't need cheating. In the Demo, i found UT2004, online, quite easy. Why cheat? It only leads to bad things, and you being banned /serial being banned..

Cheaters are mysteries wrapped in enigmas.

lockless posted on 03-22-2004I just got off the phone with a very nice lady at the Attorney Generals office for North Carolina where Epic Games is based.

If you need to contact them follow this link...

Have to laugh at that on. There is something called an EULA. AG wouldn't be able to touch it, not to mention that cheats are considered "Hacks" and hacks are frowned upon in the legal world.

That's not funny man, it looks like the kid is really hurt. And another thing, I saw that friggin image without the "Ebaumsworld," can't Ebaums and StrangeCosmos make ANYTHING original?

And though I can't play online, I'm glad to hear Epic and Atari are already slamming the lid on cheaters. It's about time a company did that.

Yea, I'd understand if most people didn't see that as funny...It's just a little kid i know. And ebaums shouldn't really stamp their names on someone else's picture because all they do is add some stupid text. But to me that pic says owned all over.

They put there names on it, because they are hosting it.

Why let someone use all that free bandwidth, if you can get an add into it?
