I got this when I contacted EA about the FDS number. It worked!

Hello

Thank you for contacting me. We are still looking into this issue. The server used to send out these email is functioning. However some people have not received their numbers.

Make sure your email account is not blocking any emails from YourRenegadeFDSSerial@westwood.com. Also, try creating a Westwood account with a different email address.

There is a chance we can get your number. Go ahead and send me the following information:

Login used to get a number:
Email the login is attached to:

Click here to submit the above information
<http://eatech.custhelp.com/cgi-bin/eatech.cfg/php/enduser/ask.php?>

Be sure to include FDS at the beginning of the subject line.

I will have to manually request it. Once I have a serial number I will be emailing it to you. This could take as many as 4 days to process.

Yeah there was this other email address floating around but This Richard guy says that one is going to close.. so, he asked me to spread the word about the new way.

Thanks Richard! Yeha like he even reads this page.

Nightma14whats the page to register nicks? all my nicks have fake emails lol , the register page is offline too, you cant register new nicks unless you have an existing login but this logins of yours are attached to a fake email so even if you get a new nick, the emails will still be emailed into a black hole of the internet loool

Sorry, the 'register' server isn't available.

It may be down for maintenance. Please try again in a few minutes.

Activation emails aren't sent out at all anymore, just log into WOL with it and it should work right off the bat.

My WOLspamming programm has a nick-registration tool. I just have to type a nick and passwort there, and you have a new nick.

So first off, why should we make a new nickname?
second that page from ea, you have to be registered to see.

and so we just go to the same renegadeserver.westwood.com to get the serial?

Could someone please just get me 4 fds serials?
