I find it surprising that, that domain name isn't taken by a porn site already.

shows something else for me...

I guess IE lies?

Or is just very confused?

Has its own agenda?

Care to explain to me how it's circular logic for me to say you're immature for bringing this site up again and that you don't follow your own "don't reply to topics you don't like" rule? I'm sure that you would have no problem defending RenAlert nor would you think that it was immature of you to do so, what makes this any different?

The fact that you're able to pull out images like that on a whim, post about the "lives" of others you know nothing about, and generally make an ass of yourself would mean that picture is a bit more suited to yourself.

Don't you think?
